

Occupational Contact Dermatitis: Where are we now?

de au

Melbourne

12. 5. 2006 12. 5. 2006

Since October 2001, the Occupational Dermatology Research and Education Centre has received support from the Department of Health and Ageing as the National Collaborative Centre for Research and Education into Occupational Contact Dermatitis. The conference aims to summarise advances and achievements of the Centre during the last five years.

OBJECTIVES

The program will include:

- update on latest knowledge regarding occupational contact dermatitis and international trends
- update on diagnostic skills and important causes of occupational contact dermatitis
- update on available prevention and treatments for occupational contact dermatitis
- discussion on implementation and practical applications of advances in prevention of occupational contact dermatitis

ACCREDITATION

This program has been accepted for CPDP Category A accreditation by the Australasian College of Dermatologists.

