

European BioAlpine Convention - Inflammation and Autoimmunity: Bridging Public and Private Research

im it yes 12. 10. 2007 90 60 120 60

Colleretto Giacosa

6. 11. 2007 7. 11. 2007

The European BioAlpine Convention 2007, an international event organised by the tri-national Transalpine Biocluster – Rhône-Alpes (France), Piedmont (Italy) and Western Switzerland – will bring together researchers and professionals from Academia and from Industry in order to present and discuss the most recent findings in the field of Inflammation and Autoimmunity. The partnership between Academia and Industry will be strong and will represent the real focus of the Convention, while the participants will be given the opportunity to get state-of-the-art information, to discuss new projects, to build synergies, exchange best practices and facilitate access to financial, industrial and scientific resources.

TARGET AUDIENCE

All academic and private Researchers and Professionals aiming to have an updated overview of the innovation in the field and interested in building strategic collaborations.

